TechSherpas's Web Site Takes on a New Look.

Tampa, Florida/USA – 28 February 2006 --- TechSherpas, the premier professional services and technical education company, headquartered in Historic Ybor City on 7th Avenue and 14th Street in Tampa, FL announced today their new web site.

TechSherpas, www.techsherpas.com takes on a fresh new image with an improved website offering customers the option to view information about TechSherpas's services in one convenient location. As a Microsoft Gold Certified Business Process and Integration Partner, TechSherpas has proven proficiency in implementing and deploying server-based portals for driving workflow and business process applications. At the click of a button the new web site offers flash features that incorporate customer testimonials, as well as easy to find events and promotions that TechSherpas offers and much more. Also, as a Microsoft Gold Certified Learning Solutions Partner, the new web site is where you'll find our latest class schedule, as well as other Microsoft Official Curriculum related information.

After recently relocating the TechSherpas headquarters to historic Ybor City, President and CEO of TechSherpas, Margaret Iuculano wanted to make a few changes to enhance TechSherpas's image in concert with the explosive growth being enjoyed in the professional services division. Iuculano stated, "In the professional services and technical education business the market is in constant change – we needed to modify the look and feel of our web portal to compliment that change, making it easier and more efficient for customers to obtain information fast – and with the improved navigation and cleaner look – customers get what they need when they need it."
